Thalēs Showcases New Technology in Client Rollout
“Harvest” Sets New Standard for Broker-Client Technology

New York, October 1, 2014 – Thalēs Trading Solutions LLC (“Thalēs”) is set to transform the way clients interact with their Banks and Futures Commission Merchants (“FCM”) by leveraging its innovative proprietary technology portal – Harvest. Thalēs is already providing asset managers, institutional investors, merchant firms and utilities with market leading technology and experienced Client Service, Onboarding, and eTrading teams for executing and clearing Futures and Foreign Exchange globally.

Harvest is a high performance application that consolidates Futures and FX data across Banks and FCMs enabling clients to manage a multi-FCM environment and diversify counterparty exposure. Harvest performs true dynamic aggregation, and includes functionality to augment and streamline workflow including a matching engine for reconciliation, an interactive trade allocation tool, and custom data-querying, graphically rich reports, and other unique features. Harvest’s “Notification Center” delivers customized alerts on key trigger events in client accounts. Harvest is a zero footprint system supported by Gravitax, a market-leading provider of technology for the Financial Services industry.

Thalēs’ President and CEO Marc Cohen commented: “Our goal is simple: Enhance our clients’ experience in Futures and FX in any way we can. Combining Harvest with the breadth and depth of Thalēs’ expertise, allows us to deliver a best-in-class platform at no incremental cost to our clients.”

Since the launch of Harvest, sophisticated users have already acknowledged its added value: Magesh Nair, EVP and COO of Castleton Commodities International LLC said, “The Harvest portal provides us a single platform to attain best in class controls efficiently and effectively, while strengthening the relationships that we have with our clearing broker partners”.

When asked what excited him most about Harvest’s potential, Thalēs’ Chief Information Officer, Paul Geiger, had this to say: “The scalability and flexibility are what set us apart, not to mention the speed at which we can operate. In short, it’s our creative freedom, agility, and high level of security that excites me about our product”.

The Harvest technology suite puts an emphasis on minimal on-boarding effort and user friendly functionality. Thalēs’ clients are fully operational with custom reports; reconciliations and exacting requirements with zero build on their side. Harvest was constructed with decades of experience in mind, but operates with the competitive edge of a lean start-up.

Thalēs business model leverages its unique vantage point between broker and client, thereby changing the nature of a traditional Introducing Broker (“IB”) relationship. Service, support and technology have now become the new standard.
